Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Washington Healthcare Empowerment Coalition, Inc., the Washington, D.C. affiliate of the National African American Drug Policy Coalition, Inc. since 2010 to develop programs and activities for Washington, D.C. African American youth to interrupt the pipeline to prison for many of them. These programs focus on reducing truancy, preventing dropping out of school, and encouraging educational excellence by D.C. youth in both the Public Schools and the Charter Schools of the city.

Vice-President of Administration to October 1, 2018 and National Executive Director of the National African American Drug Policy Coalition, Inc. since August 1, 2004 to the present time, on Sabbatical from the Superior Court of the District of Columbia as a Senior Judge of that Court, promoting the cause of eliminating all the remaining vestiges of disparate treatment and unlawful discrimination in our healthcare system and in our criminal justice and juvenile justice systems in particular, and generally in all related sectors of our public life. I completely retired as a Senior Judge February 2013 and became fully retired..

Consultant to Big Brothers Big Sisters of America on juvenile justice issues and mentoring – 2011 to the present.

Other Significant Professional Activities:

Served as frequent lecturer in continuing legal education programs on discovery, pretrial, sanctions, settlement conferences, Rule 11 and related subjects in civil litigation. Served as frequent lecturer on criminal motion practice and sentencing, including alternatives to incarceration.

Author of substantial number of law review and law journal articles and other legal commentary on bail, pretrial release, pretrial detention, search and seizure, the role and utilization of United States Magistrates in criminal and civil cases, and on all areas of civil litigation.

Served as frequent lecturer and panelist on juvenile delinquency issues and how to develop plans and programs to prevent and reduce delinquent conduct, violence, drug involvement, school truancy and dropping out of school, how to improve the foster care system and the handling of neglect and abuse cases in the judicial system, and how to promote increased adoptions of children when reunification with the biological family is no longer feasible. Appeared all over the country on behalf of the Children's Defense Fund as speaker and for other organizations as a participant panelist in seminars and at conferences on these issues. Have given frequent talks to junior and senior high school students in the District of Columbia to prevent juvenile delinquency, to encourage them not to be truant and to stay in school and to achieve good grades, and prepare for useful lives for themselves. Since 1994 have made several hundred presentations in D.C. Public, Charter, Private and religious schools in order to reduce juvenile delinquency and what would be criminal acts by adults and to encourage academic excellence and achievement.

Served as Adjunct Professor of Law in Trial Practice, Howard University School of Law, 1998 to 2011.

Served as Adjunct Professor of Law in Appellate Advocacy, Catholic University Columbus School of Law, 1997 to 2008.

Since August 1, 2004 to the present time I have participated as speaker and/or panelist in conferences and seminars dealing with drug usage and addiction, alcoholism, mental health and related juvenile delinquency and criminal conduct on the average of 4 or 5 times a month. During the past 3 years, I would conservatively estimate that I have made more than 250 - 300 presentations as the National Executive Director of the National African American Drug Policy Coalition, Inc. at conferences, seminars and meetings throughout this Nation. These presentations have placed an emphasis on a public health approach to drug treatment for the truly addicted and drug dependent, obtaining adequate resources for drug courts, assuring that the course of drug treatment is sufficiently intense to be effective, and promoting pretrial diversion and therapeutic sentencing for non-violent drug offenders whose crimes are directly tied to drug addiction as a disease. I have also placed heavy emphasis on an effective drug education and prevention program starting at the Third Grade in our schools coupled with an incentive rewards system for those youth who stay away from drugs and juvenile delinquency and do well in school academically and achieve according to the talents they have.

After taking Senior Judge status in 1998 to August 1, 2004 when not engaged in the multiple volunteer acts for the Bar or for the Children's Defense Fund, or serving as the Community Relations Liaison Judge for the Superior Court in the community, I sat as a Senior Judge hearing Family Law cases, and specifically handling adoption cases, for a significant period of time amounting to six to eight months a year, a significant portion of which was without compensation, as under the law, a judge can be paid only up to 20% of what a regular associate judge receives, if he or she is receiving a retirement pension amounting to 80% of salary. In the Calendar Year 2001 I sat full-time just as a regular judge for the full year and handled the Adoption Calendar for the Superior Court at a time there was a threat to create a separate Family Court and my sitting was used as a counter argument that keeping the Family Court operations as a part of the Superior Court would permit the use of experienced Senior Judges dedicated to Family law and children issues. Ultimately, Congress accepted this argument and while it increased the powers of the Family Court, it was kept as a part of the Superior Court as a unified court system.
