Dear Linda,

I am writing to clarify restrictions imposed in my donor letter to the ABA Women Trailblazers in the Law Oral History Project. I do not intend the restriction regarding publication of all or a part of my oral history transcripts to apply to the Project's plans to deposit the oral history in the Library or Congress, to include the oral history in its display(s) or include the oral history on the Project website when it is constructed. To the extent the oral history is made available to others, I would appreciate the Project providing a notice that my oral history, or any part thereof, may not be commercially published by them without my express written permission or that of the administrator(s) of my estate after my death.

I hope this provides a clear statement of my intent to permit the ABA Women Trailblazers in the Law Oral History Project to use the oral history in its activities as described above and to deposit it for reading and review at the Library of Congress as described to me in our telephone conversations. Should you require more about my intention, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Regards,

Dear Ms. Fleming:

I write in response to a recent telephone conversation with Linda Ferren regarding my ABA Women Trailblazers oral history. I am, by this letter, authorizing the ABA to release my oral history for publication by the Historical Society of the District of Columbia Circuit.

I understand that my original authorization does not otherwise permit you to share my oral history. I hope that the statement above is sufficient to forward it for publication by the Historical Society. Should you need any further information from me, please do not hesitate to contact me (see my contact information above).

Thank you for your attention to this request.
