About the Artist

Jules Arthur

A few years ago, Judge Wilkins asked renowned artist and art historian David Driskell for a recommendation of an up-and-coming artist to paint his judicial portrait. Mr. Driskell recommended Jules Arthur, describing him as a singular talent among his generation. As demonstrated by the completed work, Mr. Driskell was absolutely correct.

Born and raised in St. Louis, Jules Arthur moved to New York City in 1995 to attend The School of Visual Arts, where he received a B.F.A. with honors in 1999. The following year, he was privileged to receive guidance from Robert Blackburn while attending the Robert Blackburn Printmaking Workshop. Since then, Mr. Arthur has been the recipient of numerous awards and has been given a commending review in the New York Times for his "deft draftsmanship." Committed to the path of a lifelong student of life and art, he can be found frequently in continuing course studies at the renowned Art Students League in New York City. He states, "If one is to master the human form one must remain in constant pursuit of it."

An extensive portfolio of his portraiture, paintings, sculpture and other works can be found at www.julesarthur.com
